Realized by AIE (Italian Publishers Association) in cooperation with ICE - Italian Trade Agency to sustain Italian Publishing sector abroad

Yellow pages for exporting, selling rights and importing

In recognition of the growing importance of internationalisation, and to encourage knowledge and exchange of publishing and literary products abroad, this year we have again updated and expanded the previous edition of Italian Books Abroad (as we have done since 2008).

We believe that it is an instrument which, although basic, is a useful means of promoting publishing relations between Italy and the rest of the world, since it contains addresses and reference details for both Italian and foreign operators concerned with the import/export of books and publishing rights.

Finding out the identity of professionals in the sector is a good starting point for an understanding of the market and its potential, and also for knowledge of who to turn to in order to obtain Italian language books to distribute in one's own country.

The need for a tool like this is even greater now that Italian titles see a strong increase in popularity, reaching a public that's getting continuously wider and receiving critical attention from various media.

The criteria used for the selection of names are the same as in previous years.

For Italy the list does not include publishers who sell their own books directly abroad.

For foreign countries, alongside importers and distributors, we have also considered bookshops and bookshop chains which claim to have a wide assortment of Italian books and some of the Italian bookshops abroad which are better known and have a good reputation.

We have corrected the errors and gaps pointed out to us from the previous edition. However, as with any list, there will certainly continue to be gaps and inaccuracies. We take this opportunity to apologise to any companies which have «escaped» our attention and we invite readers to send us corrections and additions for the next update.

Serena Libri is a small publishing house founded in 1997 by Annaserena Ferruzzi to present Italian literature to Dutch and Flemish readers, from the 1950s up to the present day, including well-known authors and young first-time writers. A great fan of detective fiction, in 1999 Annaserena Ferruzzi initiated a series of thrillers with a title by Andrea Camilleri and, at the same time, the debut novel of a very young writer, Alessandro Perissinotto. So far Annaserena Ferruzzi has published 32 thrillers and 40 novels, among which a volume of short stories by 20 young Italian authors, written about their hometown at the request of the publisher. This panorama of young generation writers has received a lot of favorable reviews.

From September 2003, for about five years, Serena Libri gave life to a new initiative, the Serena Libri Garden: herewith Annaserena organized reading and study groups for lovers of Italian literature – besides an occasional book or painting exposition. The Serena Libri Garden is also the location where the publishing house hosts its book presentations, followed by a festive celebration in the garden. Among the authors that have been invited lately to Amsterdam are Alessandro Perissinotto, Andrea Vitali, Marta Morazzoni and Antonio Manzini.
